Before doing so, the laboratory must agree to specific conditions as noted in the Memorandum of Understanding (MOU). The MOU must be signed by the supervising engineer or the engineering manager of the laboratory and sent by email to Ms. G. Kermath at the CCIL certification Office, gkermath@ccil.com.

Your laboratory has requested to use the CCIL logo to demonstrate your certification. By placing this logo on your reports, and other forms of correspondence, you agree to adhere to the following requirements.

- The laboratory must be certified by CCIL
- The certification requirements must have been met for the context in which the logo is used.
- The use of the logo must only be used in reports or correspondence or quotations for testing work that comes under the auspices of the CCIL certification programs. In other words, the report, correspondence or quotation must include test results for one or more tests certified by CCIL.
- The use of the logo must not misrepresent the specifics of certification. It is considered a breach of ethics if a laboratory implies that they are certified for tests that are not included in their certification program.
